

Dixie Drive Interchange

Historic Properties Survey

A windshield survey of the Dixie Drive Area of Potential Effect was conducted on June 21, 2008 by Nancy Calkins of Horrocks Engineers. The only property within the APE with historic buildings was the Imlay property located at 563 S. Indian Hills Drive. While the outbuildings appeared to be historic, the house on the property did not, so contact was made with the homeowner, Arthur B. Imlay, to determine the age of the buildings. Mr. Imlay explained that the buildings were indeed historic, but that they had both been moved onto the property after the house was built in 1979. Due to the change in location after the historic period, neither building is eligible for the National Register of Historic Places.

Building #1 located northwest of the house.

Building #2 located west of the large cultivated field behind the house (west).
